You Wouldn't Put a Poor Roof on a Good Barn

THE same good judgment tells you not to put a poor share on your John Deere plow.

You can't expect that plow to maintain its good working qualities unless you keep it equipped with the genuine shares that fit right, work right and last the longest.

We sell genuine John Deere shares. We take great pride in the way they are made, in the way they work and in the way they resist wear.

Mr. Daniel Edgie, and daughter, of Bramhall, England, were visitors in Lacombe last week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Campbell. Mr. and Miss Edgie have been for the past three months touring the United States and Canada. Mr. James Edgie having joined them in Chicago in January, and are now on the last lap of their journey, and will return to England shortly. Mr. Daniel Edgie is heavily interested in manufacturing industries in England, and his visit to this continent was inspired by a desire to get conditions first hand. The trip has been a most enjoyable one, and Mr. Edgie goes back home greatly enthused over the prospects of the Canadian west, and the Lacombe district in particular. While here the party went out as far as Rimbey, and took in the beauties of the famed Blindman Valley.

RADIO MAY AID MAN IN STUDY OF WILD LIFE

Do animals converse?

Harry Allen, famous New Brunswick guide, says they do, and he speaks from the experience of a lifetime spent in the woods which flank his seventy-eight mile lease of the Cains River.

Within certain limits, the language of the wild can be counter-fitted by man with such skill that it deceives the animals themselves. Thus, the call of the cow moose in the mating season is more often than not a successful lure in bringing the bull to the hunter. The cry of the hunting wolf and the hark of the migrating geese are easily imitated by the initiate and are easy of interpretation. There is, however, nothing particularly new in this. What is new, is Mr. Allen's claim that animals communicate with one another by sounds inaudible to the human ear. That they do converse and communicate one with the other is demonstrated in a thousand ways each day. What our well-known guide suggests is that radio can eventually solve the question and be the means of interpretation of the animal communication.

That the human ear is sensitive to but a very narrow and limited range of vibrations is in fact certain. With Mr. Allen's hopes to prove shortly that all animals are sensitive to, and make use of,

"wave lengths" outside the range of mankind.

"It is a common occurrence in the woods to see a cow moose leave her calf, or a deer her fawn," says Mr. Allen by way of example. "I have seen it hundreds of times. Every time the mother animal has instructed her young, in a language inaudible to human ears, not to stray. That language was quite intelligible to the young, but although I have sometimes been within touching distance, I have never heard the faintest sound, beyond at most, the blowing out of the nostrils from the mother which had no apparent significance. The young of the moose or deer will remain exactly as its mother left it, even though she be gone for half an hour at a stretch. More than that—in case of extreme need it will 'radio' its mother without apparent sound."

"I have experimented on the problem many times. In each case it has been the same. I have waited until the mother has gone some distance; then have approached and stroked the young animal. Beyond a slight twitching of the skin, it has not moved, but it must have sent out a call, for almost immediately I would hear the mother's return. At such moments I would not pursue my investigations further."

Mr. Allen has cited many other "demonstrations" to members of the Tourist Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway who are encouraging him to develop his theory still further as he engages in the role of guide, philosopher and friend to the fisherman and the hunter.

Will Farmers-Conservatives Form Union

Coalition between the Conservative and U.F.A. parties in Alberta is strong probability which may be consummated within the next three months, so the Journal is informed on what is believed to be high authority. This is now being talked of in political circles and it is believed that the time is approaching when such a coalition will have a working arrangement.

The resignation of A. A. McGillivray, K.C., as provincial Conservative leader, retirement of Premier Brownlee as premier and his place being taken by Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works, with a provincial general election, next year, are all on the cards, so the Journal is informed. On the eve of the legislature being prorogued, checks reports were current and they carry with them a wealth of confirmation which shows there are important moves under way.

The future of the Conservative party in this province is at stake, as viewed from the standpoint of participation in provincial affairs. There is a firm belief reported in Calgary, that Mr. McGillivray intends to resign as Conservative leader to devote his time to his law practice, which suffered considerably when he took the post of head of the party. Attention is drawn to the statement by Mr. McGillivray that if he does decide to resign as leader, that information will be communicated to the members of his own party in the first instance. He was quite emphatic in stating that he does not intend to resign his seat in the legislature.

The belief in the Journal is informed, that Mr. McGillivray will resign as leader now that the session is over, and that there will be a call issued for a Conservative convention to be held during the summer.

The next step would be closer relations between the Conservatives and Farmers parties in the house. This would mean that the Conservative members would cross the floor and act in support of the government, possibly reserving the right to criticize when some matter was disapproved of.

When the Conservative convention is held, there is no doubt that the chief matter for discussion will be that of linking up with the Farmers. This would mean that no leader would be appointed to succeed Mr. McGillivray, but the four Conservatives now in the house, two from Edmonton and two from Calgary, would be a wing of the Farmer party.

It is quite well known that there are "dis-bards" in the Conservative ranks who would not countenance any move of the very kind. They might be won over, however, if it was shown that the party would retain its identity to the full so far as participation in Dominion elections was concerned. This would mean the naming of a Conservative as a provincial party.

But the attitude of Henry Wise Wood, veteran leader of the United Farmers is what may upset the whole apple cart. Mr. Wood has long been a believer in the economic group and he might be disposed to oppose any acceptance of Conservatives within the fold. Should Mr. Wood oppose any such plan, then it might fall through altogether in view of his powerful sway over the U.F.A. organization.

Premier Brownlee is believed to be seriously considering the idea of retiring from office, which was a step frequently rumored last year. He is thought to be interested in certain other projects and might not regret giving up the post of premier.

In case the premier should decide to resign, then his successor would likely be Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works. This minister is very popular with the back benches and is looked upon as an able debater, while his training as speaker of the house would also stand him in good stead as leader of the government. It is claimed.

There is a common belief that a provincial election will be held next year, though the government may remain in office until July, 1931, if the chances be so. But the fact that the railways have been sold, that the obtaining of the natural resources in sight and that the wheat pool is popularly viewed by the farmers is believed to be a combination that will cause the U.F.A. government to go to the country next year.

TO SEEK STILL BETTER TERMS

For the time being the provincial government does not intend either to accept or reject the natural resources offer that it has had under consideration since early in January. It is asking the legislature to leave it free to consider the matter, just as the end of last session it was left to seek a better deal for the sale of the northern railways which it obtained six months later. The premier thus defined its position on Monday after a very clear and exhaustive review of the present situation and of the long and chequered history of the subject.

The desirability of an early decision has been urged upon him and his colleagues. The province needs a very clear revenue, estimated to be at least a million dollars a year, which it would obtain if the present terms were accepted. Then there is the danger, which undoubtedly exists though Mr. Brownlee minimizes it, that, if the negotiations are allowed to drag on over a lengthy period, circumstances may arise that will lead to the substitution of less generous

Piling It On Young Folks

All of a sudden, it seems, educators and parents in Alberta have awakened to a realization of the fact that school curricula in general and those of the high school in particular are crowded to breaking point. Parents who have seen their almost-grown-up families deprived of every opportunity of acquiring the social arts, benefiting by the cultural influences of music, the drama, contemporary literature and so on and have even children turning sickly and fragile by being denied opportunities for healthful recreation—such parents have long suspected that their children were being asked to do too much. If they mentioned it to the school principal they were only told that the amount of homework prescribed was absolutely essential if the prescribed curriculum were to be completed within the term. And, of the course, this principal was right with things as they were. And yet educators, voluntary as well as professional, in their zeal for mere academic education, kept piling it on to the young folks, each with a hobby of his own or her own to ride to the distress of the pupils. Yearly or at shorter intervals well meaning men and women gathered and discovered something that school boys and school girls should have been learning and weren't and accordingly they used their influence to have it added to the already over-crowded curriculum.

This sort of thing might have gone on indefinitely had it not occurred to some educator of a practical rather than a merely idealistic turn of mind that society demands of its members more things than are taught in the high schools. A liberal education may have an elevating influence, but the young girl who emerges from high school to the drawing room and finds that, in spite of her familiarity with the works of long-dead authors and her close acquaintances with biology, botany and physics, she is handicapped because she can't dance decently nor play even a fair game of bridge nor appreciate good music—well, she just turns revolutionary, that's all. And her parents admit that they don't know what to do with Clara and they and the rest of the world sit down and write furious letters to the newspapers about the terrible decadence of the younger generation.

And the young man, unfamiliar with the sporting field except as he may have been herded into the bleachers to watch somebody else play his games or as he may have surreptitiously paid two dollars into a pari-mutuel machine, proceeds to go to the dogs with corresponding rapidity.

One by one educators are beginning to realize that the world is what the matter with the younger generation; that is why the less educated people are often the most successful. We are not witnessing the degeneracy of youth so much as its revolt and our educators, out of their very zeal, have been to blame.

Marshal Foch Is Dead

Memories of the Great War are recalled with vivid sharpness by the announcement of the death of Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch. During the momentous closing months of the conflict he was the embodiment of Allied hope and confidence. He was the special agent chosen by destiny to treat France's fulfilment of long-sought-for silent waiting for a powerful and unfriendly neighbor to strike.

Selected as supreme commander of the Allied forces on the western front in April, 1918, he carried out a campaign which in a little over a month forced the mighty military organization of the enemy to sue for peace on any terms. In this campaign he led the greatest force of troops ever assembled under one command. The supreme moment of his career was on the dark, chilly morning of November 18, 1918, when he read to three German envoys in the forest of Compiègne the terms on which the Allies would agree to a cessation of hostilities.

Foch was of the new type of military leader. He was the professor rather than the practical soldier. He spent a lifetime studying the science of war, and back of this consecration of his great intellect was the hope that some day he would play a worthy part in eliminating the ever-present German menace. The Franco-German war gave him his first experience of war and it left painful memories. Born and educated in Lorraine, he witnessed the wronging of that province from the control of France. He moved at once into French territory but the fear and hatred of German military power never left him. He lived to restore Lorraine and Alsace to France.

Apart from his personal experience of the Franco-Prussian war, in which he saw no service, although he enlisted as a mere youth, the fact that his mother was the daughter of an officer in Napoleon's army was an influence in deciding him to adopt a military career. He received his commission in the army in 1873 and joined an artillery corps. He rose rapidly in rank and later joined the general staff of the army and the Ecole de Guerre. In 1898 he became professor of military history and strategy at the institution and in 1906 he became the commandant. He was recognized as the master military strategist of France and his ideas of tactics had an important influence in the French army.

He made no secret of his keen disappointment over the terms of the Versailles peace treaty. He believed that the treaty deprived France of the just fruits of victory, but history may show that he was wrong and the men who successfully advocated more leniency toward Germany right. Greater severity would have driven Germany into the arms of Bolshevik Russia, an alliance most dangerous to the peace and integrity of Europe.

His coming manifesto should contain an authoritative history of the war from the viewpoint of one of its chief actors. They comprise 18 volumes and are believed to be virtually complete. They will prove of enormous interest to all students of war and of contemporary history.

WHY IS A NEWSPAPER LIKE A WOMAN?

That was a question put to its readers by the Leader, published in Fort Meade, Florida. For the best answer a subscription for one year was offered. Here are some of the replies:

Because they are well worth looking over.
Because back numbers are not in demand.

Because they are not afraid to speak their minds.
Because they have a great deal of influence.

Because they carry the news wherever they go.
The correct answer is given thus: "Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbors."

How can any man possibly look as pleasant as this Gymnasium Instructor, with seven charming ladies crying "Gimme" at once? The answer is that the photograph was taken on the Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of Richmond" during a cruise of West Africa, the Isles of the West and the Mediterranean. This was the last photograph taken by the late "Togie" Edwards, father of the modern illustrated newspaper.

Mr. Chowen to Mr. Puffer

The Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association, Ltd.

Editor: The Western Globe:

Your issue of February 14th contained a letter from Mr. W. F. Puffer, with whom I have always enjoyed a friendship, and for whom I hold the utmost respect. It is with much regret that I feel compelled to answer this letter in order to defend myself and the business interests of The Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association, Ltd., against his malicious attack.

I have no apologies to offer, nor do I intend to withdraw any statement I have ever made at any annual or organization meeting of our association. Every statement that I have ever made is absolutely true, and it has never been necessary for me to repeat these statements in order to believe them. The fact is that not one half of the truth about the deplorable conditions which the farmers of the Blindman Valley were forced to submit before the forming of our association has ever been told. It is only to refresh your memory that I recall some of our old time grievances here. Our association has taken care of most of them long ago, and with our increasing membership, business, prosperity and loyal cooperation among our members, it is only a matter of time when with similar organizations we will remove the many difficulties that still lie in the pathway of the producer, and reach the goal for which purpose this association was organized. It is very gratifying to know that our organization has become large enough for our opposition to bring it to the attention of the public through the press.

Our annual meetings have always been open to the public whether a member or not. Any visitor has always had the privilege of obtaining any information he desired, and it is too bad that Mr. Puffer did not avail himself of this opportunity to get the true facts instead of making himself ridiculous by publishing propaganda obtained from opposition to the association, by which he has been misled. With these facts before me, I am overlooking the fact that he has accused me of making false statements. I am extending his ignorance and extending my sympathy toward him whom I have looked upon as a misguided individual whom our opponents and his friends are using to set out their grievances because they themselves do not know how to do so. Mr. Puffer has accused me of making misleading statements to obtain members. Now we should know that it is impossible to hold the confidence of the public in this way. One would have thought that his own experience in political and public life would have shown him that it is only by honest endeavor and fair methods that success can be obtained, and the many wrecks and failures lying by the wayside bear grim evidence to the fact.

Mr. Puffer seems to be laboring under the misapprehension that we are a mining concern. We do not claim any service in this way and do not in any way fear Clause 414 of the Criminal Code. We do not have to resort to any low down methods in order to secure members. They come voluntarily and ask to sign our contract. Every week sees new members and most of the new ones did not withdraw have again signed up. As a compliment to Mr. Puffer, I might say that there has been a substantial increase in this way since his letter was published.

At our annual meeting in January, 1926, a delegation of farmers from the Lacombe district attended the meeting and asked the association to extend into Lacombe. There are scores, yes hundreds of members of this association whom I have never met, let alone tried to mislead in any way, but I feel and know that they are my friends and are of a type who are quite capable of looking after their own affairs, including the marketing of their own livestock, through their own association without the advice of Mr. Puffer or any of the drovers.

It is impossible for me to tell who was responsible for the conditions which prevailed in our district prior to our organization. When I talk to the packer he admits conditions were wrong but blames them on the unscrupulous drovers. When I talk to the drover he says he could only do what the packer allowed him to do. The man who was responsible for our trouble I will not say, but one thing I will not hesitate to state, is that the combination of the two, and the condition of affairs which they brought about was responsible for the organization of the Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association five years ago, starting with a membership of three hundred and now reaching a total of twelve hundred and fifty.

We have two Co-operative associations operating in our district. One is the Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association Ltd., operating with a charter complying with the rules and regulations of the province of Alberta, owned, operated and controlled by the farmers themselves on a business contract basis, an outstanding example to the world of the efficiency and capability of the farmers to not only produce but to market the products of their own. Their up to date yards, scales, handling equipment, and marketing facilities at ten railway points unequalled in any other district in Western Canada.

If not in the whole Dominion, owned and paid for, are a pride not only to the farmers but to the country as well. The other organization is Drovers' Co-Operative Association. This organization was not always run on a Co-Operative basis. The members used to operate individually, co-operating only in times of trouble, but since the Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association has been established, they find it more convenient and economical to work together as much as possible. Their business methods are governed entirely by the amount of extracting punishment their victims can withstand. Some of them spend a great deal of their time trying to convince our contract signers that our association is not a good thing, and that our contract might be broken with a certain amount of safety. They are particularly active in the district north and west of Bentley which Mr. Puffer mentions. This district used to be one of their best fields of harvest. They are now trying by hook or crook to get their members to break their contract. They have been able in the last three months to buy and ship out of this district all about two carloads of what they call Bootleg hogs, bought mostly from children and men who have never belonged to our association, even stopping so low, I am told by reliable information, to promise to pay all costs and be responsible for any trouble which would be incurred by any of our members who have never belonged to them. They have no business principles nor business scruples. They do not operate under a charter and have no contract. Organizations of this kind never do. They are somewhat in the same class as other bootleg organizations. They are quite easy to distinguish. If you shake hands with one you will note at once that he has no callouses on his hands, and as he walks away you will notice his trousers are much more worn behind than in front.

Let us compare the service given by the two organizations. Mr. Puffer claims the drover system offers the better service of the two. He is quite right, but the service is all for the drover. Under the drover system, hogs were bought at four points along the whole line, weighed in most cases on scales built by the farmers themselves. One packer buyer buying for the two leading western packing firms, and the blind man took good care that no other buyer got any chance to buy. The fine competitive spirit of the drover again made itself manifest by not offering any competition whatever. Outside buyers came in from time to time offering much higher prices, but immediately the packer raised his agent's price compelling the opposition buyer to withdraw, then down went the price lower than ever. Farmers tried co-operative shipment with the same results. Two local farmers started shipping, offering a very substantial rise in price. At once the packer agent went to the telephone, called up his packer, and the buyers were told to the packer's office. Some were "raise your price so high that they will never try to ship again." He raised his price so high that the farmer's buyers trying to compete lost money. We paid the packer's loss the next week and continued to do so until we organized our association.

On the first Co-operative shipment of hogs the farmers shipped from Bentley, they cut the spread between Calgary and Bentley more than half of what the packer buyer was paying, but immediately the price began to rise, but the co-operative farmers stood by their guns that day even though the packer agent boasted the price same as usual when other buyers were in the field. One man alone received twenty-five dollars less that day than the packer buyer was offering, but he said that he figured that he received twenty-five dollars more than he would have received had the farmers not been shipping their own hogs that day. This is a sample of the drover service. Mr. Puffer says the drovers offer additional payments on hogs if they were in the field. One man alone received one of them. Scores of old timers have told me recently that they never received one in over twenty years, and I have yet to find a single man who ever received one until after this association started paying them.

Now when the drover does buy some of these bootleg hogs or a few cattle, he speaks in and uses the association's scales and yards which the farmers have built and paid for, paying a paltry sum which the rules of our land allows for this service, which does not much more than pay the inspection fees, let alone the upkeep on several thousand dollars in weight. The drovers are somewhat like the Co-Op bird; they have no nest of their own, so they lay their eggs in another bird's nest and get their hatched free. And they call this service.

He says he feels some embarrassment at having continued so long in the drover business. I can assure him that a great many farmers feel considerable embarrassment at having stayed so long under the drover system. He claims drovers have lost heavily in recent years, and he means since the Blindman Valley Association commenced business. What a pity this association had not been organized years ago and forced these poor fellows into some other mode of marketing their own. Their words of it as being in business for themselves. The farmers look at it differently and judging them by their business methods we consider them nothing else than hired agents of the packers and commission men in order to us this great service of theirs, a service which has been rather expensive to most of us. He accuses Mr. Claypool of making false statements when he stated that drovers often made from ten to thirty dollars per head on cattle. This is rather lame in comparison to some of the deals which have been pulled off by drovers in this valley. Many of us are well acquainted with a drover who bought a cow from a farmer in this district and after he had delivered her to the local stockyards, the drover resold the cow at a profit of nearly thirty dollars without as much as moving her from the local yards, but he did not pay the producer any rebate. I can give you another instance where a profit of over forty dollars was collected off one steer. I can quote a score of similar cases. Thousands of cattle have been driven and shipped out of the north end of this valley at private better than free gifts to the drovers. Mr. Puffer calls this Drover Service.

Now, we have tried this drover service and found it a failure. Our association tried it after it was formed, and we again found it a failure. When the drover compelled we called a meeting at Lockhart, inviting several drovers to attend, and several did. They said that it was impossible for them to handle hogs for less than $7.00 per cwt. under Calgary with hogs at $9.00 per cwt. or less on the market. We were handling them for 60c. per cwt., so we found the drover service again a failure and why? Because the drover is not a packer and he has no private concerns, which statement Mr. Puffer verifies in his letter.

All packers and private concerns always prefer to buy direct through their drover agent, unless compelled to come on the open market. The only hope the producer has is to organize, cut out the drover and sell their own product, compelling the packers and commission men to buy our product in open competition with the buyers of the world. Mr. Puffer did not quote what price the drover paid in this district in 1923 when hogs sold as high as $13.50 in Calgary. Perhaps he would rather not and I do not blame him. I have the records and they certainly would not look very good to the producers. I will give them to Mr. Puffer privately if he desires, but I would rather spare him the embarrassment of seeing them in the public press. They would show very good type of the service the drover used to give us.

What service does the Blindman Valley Association render? It is our own association, owned, operated and controlled by the producers. Our yards, scales and handling facilities placed at all convenient shipping points give to the producer the best service possible. Our hogs, cattle and sheep are placed in open competition with the drover, and they certainly (not as it used to be, sold through hired employees of private packing concerns). The producer receives the whole value of his livestock, less the handling charges, and I will defy any drover or private buyer to do business as economically and give to the producer the service our association is able to give. This last year with hogs ranging as high as $13.35 in Calgary we have been able to reduce the price to $9.00 per cwt. I use these figures only as a basis of comparison, for in no way does the Calgary market affect the marketing of our hogs, as they are sold on the world's market. When the eastern system of marketing was absorbed there, they go there and when the American markets can take them, they go there, in direct shipment through billing thus giving the producer every last cent. By using this method in conjunction with our own organizations in the province we have helped to relieve the congestion on the home markets, with the result that during the last couple of years Calgary and Edmonton have been the best markets in Western Canada.

It was through this association that this district was able to secure the services of Mr. Gavin Barbour from the Livestock Branch of the Dept. of Agriculture. We are working with him, giving him advice and assistance we can to help him in his undying efforts to build up a higher standard of swine breeding in this district through the boys and girl's swine clubs.

Our up-to-date accounting and bookkeeping system, audited by a chartered accountant is at the service of every member of the association and any information is theirs for the asking.

It is our own association and the service is in our own hands, and surely when we consider the fact that last year our association marketed 93 pc. of the hogs and 35 pc. of the cattle in the Blindman Valley as well as 87 pc. of the hogs and a good percentage of the cattle in the Lacombe district, it is good proof of the service rendered by the association.

The members are well satisfied with our progress. They do not find the contract galling as Mr. Puffer intimated. On the other hand they have learned that it is only by signing a contract that these privileges and services can be obtained. Let us sum up the service rendered by the two systems. The drover system, operated by hired agents of private concerns whose business it is to make profits for themselves and the concerns who employ them. The Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association an independent marketing association, owned, operated and controlled by ourselves, not tied to any private concern, marketing our own livestock on the open competitive market of the world, giving to the producer a handling service as well as a marketing service, cutting out the middleman and drover's profits and giving to the producer service at cost less a fee of two dollars when he becomes a member.

In conclusion let me say, I am prepared to back up any statement I have ever made in any public meeting or in this letter, even though Mr. Puffer would like to trip them up. I am very much afraid his "wish is father of his thought." I did not make them with the expectation that he would believe them, but I am prepared to prove not only to Mr. Puffer but to the public at large that these statements are true nevertheless, and a great deal of truth is yet untold.

I am not condemning the drover as a class. Many of them including Mr. Puffer, I know to be honest, upright men. But I am condemning the system which employs them, a system which has tied the producers of the world wide, a system, thanks to Co-Operative Marketing now passing out of the world, and the drovers of this district served its producers as diligently and as faithfully as they have served the packers and commission men, they would not have been seeking sympathy in the public press today.

The Blindman Valley Co-Operative Association has kindled a fire which will never be extinguished. The time is fast coming and God speed the day when the producers of this world will only labor to produce, but by one and great brotherly Co-Operative system will intelligently and profitably market the product of their toil. Until that day arrives, the packer and drover will continue to work against us. But come what may, the Blindman Valley Co-Operative Assn. will go on forever.

A Column of Fun and Facts for Lacombe Folk and our Farmer
Friends

At a recent Board of Trade banquet, Mr. Seymour, the Town planning expert, briefly described his work, and we hope that at least some of his ideas and suggestions will be followed to the benefit of Lacombe and District.

Use good seed and plant it right.

Right Spirit

We like to hear the newcomers, people who have lived in Lacombe only a short time, speak of it as "OUR community."

With a McCormick-Deering Tractor, good plowing is speedily done and seed beds can always be prepared in season. Ask for a demonstration.

"It does not necessarily follow, that a man is a fool just because he thinks you are."

M McCormick-Deering Grain Drills seed accurately and pull light. For every farm, either large or small, we have them that will fill the bill. They are built to serve.

A Scott's Wish

"Make me a child again just for tonight." Once said a Scotchman—and Scotchmen are tight. "I'm leaving tonight on a boat trip to Ayr. Make me a child and I'll travel half fare."

We have McCormick-Deering P. and O. plows for the largest or the smallest operations. They are very light draft and exceptionally easy to handle in the field.

BETTER SEED, LARGER CROPS
HIGHER PROFITS

The farming world of Canada this last year has been filled with discussions in regard to practically everything that enters into production, transportation, processing, and delivery of Canadian grains on the world's markets.

One important factor has come out of it all, and is not disputed, which is that Canada is in serious danger of the loss of her hard won reputation for hard red spring wheat.

There is no disputing that if this reputation were to be lost, it would be a catastrophe for the farmers of Canada, because it would mean at the outset that Canadian wheat would have to come into competition, on an equal basis, which it seldom has had to do up to the present, with the enormous quantities of inferior wheat from other wheat exporting countries. Most certainly this would mean not only lower prices but a higher marketing cost as well because it would be more difficult to sell, due to less eager demand.

Apparently the wheat raisers of Canada too long have regarded themselves as occupying a preferred position and have really come seriously to think that the person who buys their wheat should be satisfied with exactly what the Canadian farmer wishes to supply them with and should, in fact, regard himself as more or less of a lucky person to get this wheat at all.

This mental attitude on the part of the farmer is, of course, all wrong, and if continued will certainly lead to disaster. The unpleasant fact remains that the real master of the whole situation is the buyer and not the producer, and that if Canada wishes to remain as the supplier to the world's markets of the highest quality of wheat, that will fetch a premium above the wheats from all other countries, when it is vitally necessary for the wheat producers of Canada, through their marketing organizations and other agencies, to take considerable pains to find out exactly kind of wheat their customer demands and exactly the grade and shape in which the customer desires this wheat to be delivered.

The world's buyers require only a maximum of some ten grades of Canadian wheat. The unpleasant fact remains that last year some 450 grades of Canadian wheat were offered by farmers to the marketing agencies for sale. By actual count, with our present grades and varieties, it has been computed that no less than 2,623 grades could be produced. The great bulk of which grades are absolutely and entirely unnecessary and preventable.

Without recounting the many factors that go to make up all these unnecessary grades it is sufficient to state that a great number of them are caused by the mixing of different varieties. Therefore, no small number of the great mass of unnecessary grades can be eliminated by the farmer himself this coming year if he will determine to seed only seed that is pure, clean, reasonably true to variety and the right variety for his district.

Not only will the crops produced from such seed mature more evenly than scrub seed, not only will they give a higher yield because of the careful selective breeding work being done, but in addition they will give a higher grade because of the trueness to variety.

The air is full of co-operation these days but the farmer must not forget that only a small step in co-operation has been accomplished by co-operating together to put in an agency to market crops. True co-operation means that the farmer himself in turn will do everything within his power to co-operate, not only with his marketing agency, but also with the purchaser of his products. Both of these mean actually the same thing, producing as nearly as possible the kind of product the customer demands and in such shape as he requires.

As far as the wheat industry is concerned, this simply means that crops will be produced which are as clean as possible and as true to variety as possible and of that variety which is most acceptable to the world's purchaser, which as far as the bulk of Alberta wheat is concerned means hard, red spring wheat, of high milling value.

To secure these kind of crops it is necessary for the first step to sow seed of the right variety and which will be as clean as it can be made, which will contain practically no weed seeds nor other kinds of grain, and which will be of strong vitality and germination.

If the bulk of western Canadian wheat growers would do this, very simple thing there would never be the slightest danger of Canadian wheat losing the fine premium over all other wheats which it has enjoyed in the past and should command in the future. Incidentally, too, the work of these who market this wheat will be easier and carried on more cheaply.

There is no money spent by the farmer which will bring him in such big profits as that spent in securing good, clean seed.

BOARD OF TRADE LUNCHEON

Some forty members of Lacombe and District Board of Trade attended the luncheon in the Adelphi Hotel on Saturday afternoon last, on the occasion of a visit from Hon. Irene Pariboy, who was the speaker and guest of honor. Mrs. Pariboy, gave an interesting and enlightening talk on some of the things she had noted during her recent visit to the old country. She had particularly noted experiments made along educational lines in England, some of which might be applied to Alberta with good effect. She also gave a short account of her visit to Denmark, where she had looked into agricultural and marketing schemes. In Denmark, co-operative marketing had reached a high level, in fact every branch of agriculture was organized under one controlling head, and the country was prospering in consequence.
